Investment Overview

Strictly Confidential

- The Value Up Strategy employs an unlevered friendly activist approach to investing in small to mid-sized listed Japanese companies.
- The Value Up Strategy has demonstrated a successful track record of unlocking shareholder value in an otherwise shareholder unfriendly environment.
- Value is realized when a consensual plan for operational and/or financial engineering is implemented.
- While value-added comes from numerous sources, current major themes focus on Japanese unique factors.
- The strategy offers a USD, currency hedged, and beta hedged classes.

Value Up Investment

- ✓ Propose value-up plans to the investee companies after acquiring a significant # of shares
- ✓ Build consensus and maintain friendly relationships with CEO and senior staff
- ✓ Expect improving valuations during the implementation process of the value-up plan
- ✓ Exit at fair value after realizing created value

Stock Picking Strategy

- ✓ Concentrated investment in companies with deeply undervalued share prices and healthy financial status.
- ✓ Initiate the investment after sharing corporate vision with senior management and awareness of stock market valuation

Investment Opportunity: Net cash value

Strictly Confidential

Investments in “extreme” deep value stocks after a financial crisis significantly outperform the TOPIX index over the mid- to long term. The current financial situation offers an attractive opportunity to invest in stocks with high net cash ratios.

Performance comparison between “extreme” deep value stocks and TOPIX^{*1,2}

- After the Japanese financial crisis, when TOPIX hit bottom on 2003 March 11th there were 165 companies with a net cash ratio of over 80% (out of 3,626 of listed companies).
- An equal weighted investment in those 165 stocks on 2003 March 11th would have returned 171% after two years and outperformed the TOPIX by 116%.

Investment Opportunity: Listed Subsidiary

Strictly Confidential

Reasons to dissolve subsidiary listing

Mounting listing cost

- Cost and time for audit are continuously increasing year by year, driven by IFRS and Sarbanes and Oxley.

Weak purpose of listing (no financial needs)

- Most listed subsidiaries are cash rich companies and do not need equity finance.

Growing criticism toward subsidiary listing.

- Growing criticism by minority shareholders due to conflict of interest with the parent company.
- DPJ members aim to ban dual listing.

Parent company can acquire subsidiary at valued price

- Most subsidiaries are highly undervalued.
- The acquisition of valued subsidiary allows parent to post a negative goodwill.

Trend of dissolution of subsidiary listings^{*1}

- The long term trend of increasing numbers of subsidiary listings has turned

Japan style subsidiary listing is not so common in other developed countries Strictly Confidential

Although major developed countries have different financial market regulations, the principle of preserving shareholder's right is strictly adhered to while refraining from the Japanese style of subsidiary listings.

	USA 	United Kingdom 	Germany 	France
Regulations	● Parent company has a fiduciary duty of loyalty to subsidiary's minority shareholders ● Subsidiary minority shareholders can file shareholder lawsuit accusing fiduciary of violating duty of loyalty ● NYSE's regulation does not forbid the formation of subsidiary listing. However, inquisition is made into the parent's major share holdings and whether the shares will be liquidated in the near future^{*2}	● Acquisitions over 30% and under 50% of voting right is not allowed.^{*1} ● In the case of the acquisition exceeding 30% of voting right, the buyer must offer a 100% TOB to provide a sellout opportunity to minority shareholders^{*1} ● "cold-shouldering" is applied to the company who breaches the code above, and no further M&A is possible in UK because it cannot use any financial advisory services for TOBs	● In the case of an acquisition exceeding 30% of voting rights, the buyer must offer a 100% TOB to provide a sellout opportunity to minority shareholders (mandatory TOB)^{*1} ● The company who doesn't comply with the mandatory TOB loses all interest in shares until the execution of the mandatory TOB. ● If a subsidiary suffers a loss due to a parent exercising influential power, the parent is liable and must compensate for the loss. ● In the above case, minority shareholders of the subsidiary can file a lawsuit for the loss	● In the case of the acquisition becoming over 1/3 of voting rights of a listed company, the buyer must offer a 100% TOB ● In the case of a mandatory TOB, the TOB price must exceed the maximum price paid out by the buyer in the past 12 months. ● In the case of the acquisition of shares breaching mandatory TOB code, the additional acquired interest in shares are deprived. If this deprivation is violated, a cash penalty is charged.
